

travel wa shortcuts

thewest.com.au/travel

Great experience a Shore Thing

As a special deal for 2011, Sail Ningaloo is offering a bonus night free aboard its purpose-built sailing catamaran Shore Thing for all overnight tours.

The offer is an extension of Sail Ningaloo's three-day, two-night Coral Garden Spectacular Tour and means that guests will leave Coral Bay at 4pm on the day before the scheduled date of departure and enjoy a sunset sail, cheese platter and cool beverage before anchoring in a sheltered lagoon for the evening meal, all included in the special deal at no extra cost. So guests get a bonus night free and also two free meals (evening meal and breakfast).

From March 1 to October 31, a king stateroom is $1850 per person and a deluxe cabin is $1550 each.

Shore Thing is a beautifully appointed, 15.5m-long, 8.2m-wide live-aboard sailing catamaran. It is comfortable and stable at sea and at anchor.

A spokesperson for Sail Ningaloo says: "With a shallow draft, Shore Thing is an ideal vessel for accessing the many spectacular shallow inner-reef lagoons of the Ningaloo Reef which provide calm anchorage in all weather conditions. We can take you to places and show you things no one else can. Shore Thing doesn't just offer yacht charters and tours, it offers an unbelievable experience."

The catamaran takes a maximum of 10 guests and has four toilets and four showers.

Details: See www.sailningaloo.com.au and 9942 5869.